cool - I am the first who watches this video... I was wondering why you put so much effort into tv rather than into other marketing tools. Pictures are enough and great prices and some other tools would be much more cool. Btw - I also have different other ideas and your name sucks. But your platform is state of the art. So cheers :)

The image is a collage of three browser windows illustrating video SEO success.

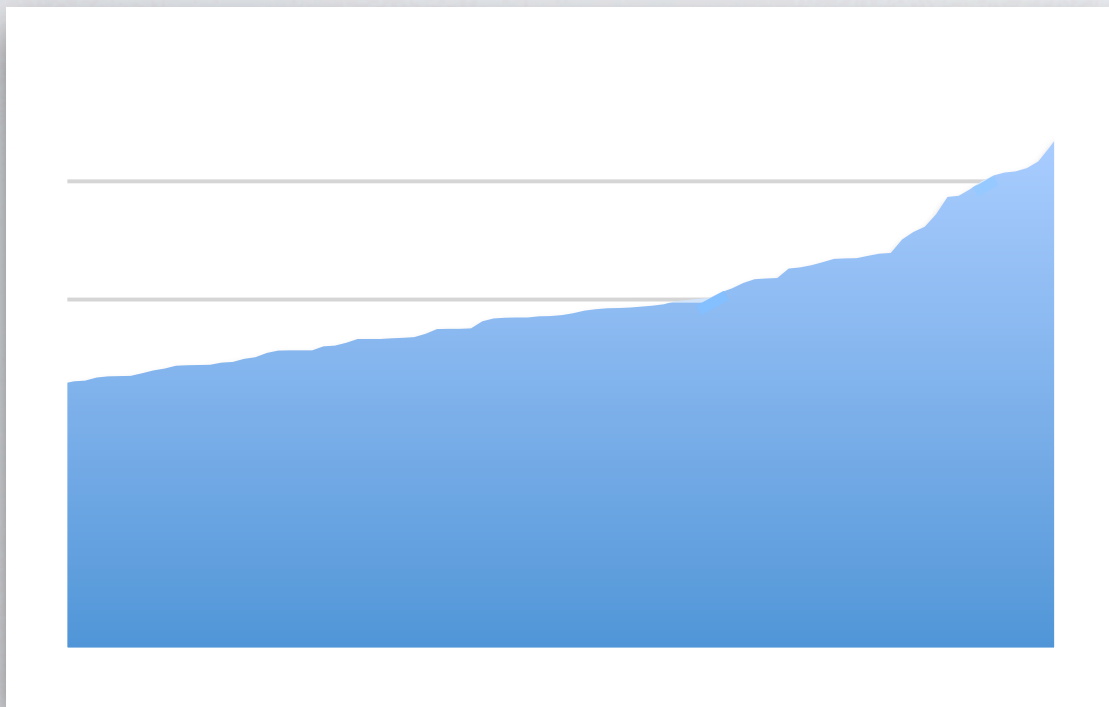

Left Window (Google Search): The address bar shows <http://www.google.com>. The search results for "Microsoft BizSpark" are displayed, with filters for "Videos" and "Past 24 hours". The search results show a video titled "Microsoft BizSpark" with a play button icon.

Middle Window (Microsoft BizSpark Website): The address bar shows <http://www.microsoft.com/bizspark/>. The website features a navigation bar with links: Home, About, Offers, Training & Resources, Partners, News & Events, BizSpark Connect, and My BizSpark. The main heading reads "BizSpark will fast-track the success of your startup with software, support & visibility." Below this, a section titled "Featuring the Best of BizSpark" highlights a video for StorSimple. The video player shows a man speaking, with a play button icon. The video title is "StorSimple". Below the video, text reads: "Learn more about StorSimple, a leading provider of enterprise cloud storage and member of BizSpark One. StorSimple was named the winner of the Microsoft BizSpark Partner of the Year Award." To the right of the video, a section titled "Featured BizSpark One Videos" lists several videos: "Clever Sense", "Soundtracker", "Gridsum", "Curse.com", and "Lymbix". A sidebar on the right encourages users to "Sign up your Startup for Microsoft BizSpark" with a "Sign up now!" button.

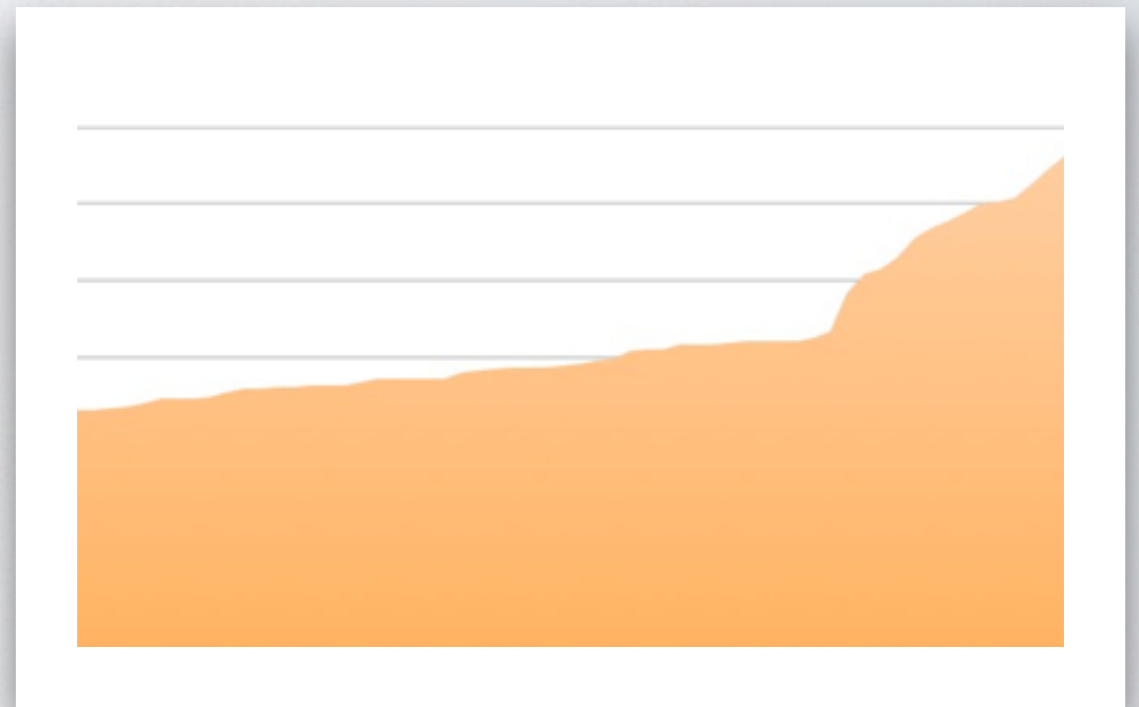

Right Window (Twitter Feed): The address bar shows <http://twitter.com>. The Twitter feed displays a tweet from "Twilio" with the text "Did you know Twilio is a".
